Transfer news chelsea 2020

Advertising In August 2018, Chelsea set the world record for a goalkeeper with the purchase of Kepa Arrizabalaga for £71 million from Spanish Athletic Bilbao. Page 1 of 35812345...102030...» Last' Deadline day in England, Germany, Spain, France and Italy was on Monday, while the windows of Portugal and the Netherlands closed on Tuesday. Domestic agreements between Premier League and EFL clubs can still take place until October 16, and a handful of other leagues windows remain open, including Russia and Switzerland. Here we have a list of all the comings and goings for our professional players... Ziyech and Werner arriveChelsea completed deals for Hakim Ziyech in February, and Timo Werner in June. The duo were the first to arrive at Cobham, which began training in July. Our first confirmed signings in the transfer window were a trio of new defenders, Ben Chilwell, Malang Sarr and Thiago Silva. Chilwell joined from Leicester and Thiago Silva, after his release from PSG, had not long previously captained them in the Champions League final. Sarr, meanwhile, was also a free agent and has since departed on loan to Porto.Kai Havertz was our next confirmed transfer. The German star came from Bayer Leverkusen in the first week of September. Our final signing prior to the end of the Premier League window was Edouard Mendy, the Senegalese goalkeeper who arrived from Rennes in Ligue 1.Pedro and Willian farewellIn August we said goodbye to two wingers who served the Blues with great distinction, Pedro and Willian, after the expiry of their contracts. The Spaniard joined Roma on a free contract, while Willian on his way to north London and Arsenal.- read our tribute to Pedro- read our tribute to WillianTwo young players, Xavier Mbuyamba and Teddy Sharmman-Lowe, has arrived from Barcelona and Burton Albion respectively. Goalkeeper Sharmman-Lowe immediately returned to Burton on loan, and defender Mbuyamba has joined our development squad. In terms of expenses, Jacob Maddox signed for Vitoria in Portugal on a permanent agreement that has been a member of our Academy since the age of 14. It is the same club that young goalkeeper Nicolas Tie joined this summer. Mario Pasalic completed a move to Atalanta in June. This is the club he had been on loan at, immediately going for Nathan and Atletico Mineiro.Josh Grant, Richard Nartey and Marcel Lavinier were released by the club. Grant has since joined Bristol Rovers, and Lavinier is at Tottenham.LoansStarting with the players who will spend the 2020/21 campaign in the Premier League, Ruben Loftus-Cheek headed a few miles down the road to Fulham on deadline day. Ross Barkley is at Aston Villa this term and Ethan Ampadu is continuing his development with Chris Wilder's Sheffield United.After successful spells at Charlton and Swansea in the Championship, Conor Gallagher has temporarily switched to Premier League new boys West Brom. Striker Michy Batshuayi is back on loan at Crystal Palace, the second half of 2018/19. Three Chelsea players are heading to England's second tier for the season. Izzy Brown is at Sheffield Wednesday, Jamal Blackman also at Yorkshire at Rotherham, and Marc Cuechi remains at Swansea after a successful spell at the Liberty Stadium earlier this year. Luke McCormick is in League One at Bristol Rovers, and fellow Academy midfielders Tariq Uwakwe and Jon Russell are heading to Accrington Stanley. Young goalkeepers Jamie Cumming and Ethan Wady have joined Stevenage and Dartford respectively. Making his first move abroad is Trevoh Chalobah, who has linked up with Ligue 1 side Lorient for the campaign. Armando Broja, who made his Chelsea debut against Everton last season, has started his first loan. Vitesse Arnhem. Our other players heading to the Netherlands are Marco van Ginkel (who has come back to PSV), George McEachran (MMV Maastricht) and Juan Castillo (AZ Alkmaar). These agreements all happened on the last day of the Dutch window. There will be Chelsea representation across the border in Belgium, too, with Ike Ugbo at Cercle Brugge and Matt Miazga at Anderlecht.Other players who are out on loan for 2020/21 are Tiemoue Bakayoko (Napoli), Davide Zappacosta (Genoa), Lucas Plazon (Rio Ave), Kenedy (Granada), Lewis Baker (Trabzonspor) and Danilo Pantic (Carick). BLUES NEWS 23 Dec 2020, 23:44Updated: 23 Dec 2020, 23:44Chelsea is reportedly considering an incredible double swoop for Erling Haaland and Declan Rice. Meanwhile, Ben Chilwell was forced off injured in their 3-0 win over West Ham. Follow all the latest from the bridge below... NOT A KEPA Chelsea will struggle to find a buyer for £71million flop Kepa Arrizabalaga and his £150,000 a week salary. That's according to Rob Green, who played for the Blues the same season Kepa was signed from Athletic Bilbao for Maurizio Sarri. Green told The Athletic: It's a tough sell. It's a talking. Chelsea and [their manager] Marina Granovskaia are not losing money. They have an asset that is badly damaged, but with football clubs in the financial state they are in, it will be hard to put anything together. I'm not even just talking about selling, even a loan will be a struggle. The transfer fee and wages are the main obstacle to resolving the situation. ROUD NOT TO West Ham are lining up an audacious January move for Olivier Giroud. The Mirror claims David Moyes is ready to chance his luck and make an offer for the World Cup winner. Giroud has found himself playing a bit-part role at Stamford Bridge. And he could be tempted by a move to the opposite side of London in a bid to salvage his Euro dream with France. THE MAGNIFICENT SEVEN Chelsea could be ready to axe seven players from their squad next summer. Centre-backs Andreas Christensen and Antonio Rudiger are not wanted by Frank Lampard, according to Sky Sports. Wing-backs Marcos Alonso and Victor Moses are also out of his plans. Meantime trio Danny Drinkwater, Ross Barkley and Jorginho all face the chop. OK COMPUTER Here's how the Premier League will end this season thanks to a computer simulation. Liverpool will apparently retain their title, with Leicester coming in an impressive second place. Man United will claim third place for the second season in a row, with Chelsea also claiming a Champions League place. Meanwhile, Fulham, West Brom and Sheffield United will go down, with Arsenal narrowly avoiding the drop. COSTA BUSINESS Diego Costa will not renew his Atletico Madrid contract. Fabrizio Romano claims the former Chelsea star is now set for a free transfer either in January or next summer. Costa would prefer to leave as soon as possible but is willing to wait if there is a shortage of offers. RICE AND EASY Chelsea remain keen to sign Declan Rice. The West Ham anchorman is seen by Frank Lampard as a long-term replacement for N'Golo Kante, writes Sky Sports. But the Blues may need to clear some dead wood first. EXCLUSIVE OF SUNSPORT'S MARTIN LIPTON FA disciplinary beak is on standby to hold emergency Christmas hearings - to prevent club chiefs gaming the system. With games 48 hours apart for some clubs over the festive period, the chance to circumvent the disciplinary framework for red card suspensions would have been an option. In previous years, clubs have appealed bans for players to ensure they were available for the next match, knowing that hearings could not be held in time. But FA boss Mark Bullingham and Prem bosses have agreed that panels can sit almost on Sunday and Monday to ensure any appeals are heard immediately. ERL'S COURT Chelsea are eyeing a stunning move for Erling Haaland. Sky Sports claims the Borussia Dortmund star has caught Frank Lampard's eye. Haaland has 17 goals in 14 games and could join Timo Werner in attack at Stamford Bridge. INTER THE DRAGON Inter Milan have put Premier League clubs on alert after revealing former Spurs star Christian Eriksen has been listed after just one year. CEO Giuseppe Marotta reportedly told Sky Italia: Yes, I can confirm that Christian Eriksen is on the transfer list. He's leaving in January. He is not functional in our plans and he had problems here at Inter. I think it's right that Christian goes away to find more space. RUDI HELL PSG are reportedly set to move for Antonio Rudiger next month. Le Parisien claim the German, who has made just one Premier League appearance this term, is being hit by Thomas Tuchel. PSG are light on the numbers at the back and experienced Rudiger is seen as the man to fill the void left by Thiago Silva. The Brazilian has ironically ousted Rudiger from the current Chelsea side. HAIL CESAR Frank Lampard has praised Cesar Azpilicueta after the Chelsea captain returned from seven games out to marshal the defence West Ham. Azpilicueta is set to continue in place of the injured Reece James against Arsenal on Boxing Day. Lampard said: 'The defence was Thiago was the leader but Azpilicueta came in and did brilliantly. As full-backs, you have to defend your zone when they cross the ball over and over again. They're really good at set-pieces, so it's something we've worked a lot on in training and staff like Thiago Silva that obviously helps a lot. Some of our defence of the box this season has been really good and consistent and it has to stay, especially against opponents that we had. Credit: Alamy Live News SILVA LINING Frank Lampard is in awe of Thiago Silva's quality despite his advanced years. He said: I remember playing in the Premier League at 36 and couldn't play like he was playing week in week out. I was in and out of the team and could feel it at that point in my career. I know he has been a fantastic player for a long time but the pressure of the Premier League when you have been playing in France for so long, no disrespect. But he has exceeded (my expectations) probably, but really I shouldn't have been surprised. I can see the quality, the preparation, the desire to win the headlines and he is very diligent about the game. He's been a great addition on and off the field. Credit: Alamy Live News EDUCATION PICS Attention turns to Arsenal now as the Blues look to close the gap on leaders Liverpool and add to it London rivals' woes. LAMPARD ON INJURIES Lampard has given an update on three key members of his squad who look set to miss Saturday's match. He had hoped to have Hakim Ziyech back to the Arsenal game but that now seems unlikely. Reece James and Ben Chilwell remain doubtful for the match. Al Ziyech, he said he had a knee injury at the start of the season and he now has a muscle injury. You have to wait to recover. It's not a long-term concern and we hope to have him back in the next week or so. And hopefully he can offer what he did before because he offered great things. We did that in a way, but it is football, it is a squad and that is what happens when players play at a high level every two or three days. On the full back: They're both dubious. We're not sure if they'll be fit for both games, said Lampard. 'BEST ARSENAL' Lampard has told his Chelsea players on Saturday to 'expect the best Arsenal' in the derby. The Boxing Day fixture sees the two sides at opposite ends of the table but Lampard says form goes out the window when it comes to derby games. He said: When you play a derby form goes out the window. Sometimes the idea of playing derby is encouraging that the team should try to get a result. So we have to expect the best Arsenal, which is a really good football team, with really good players, well coached, rotations on their team, lots of threats in attacking areas. That's what I expect, so we have to prepare for that. ahead of the meeting on Boxing Day. It's the Gunners' worst ever start to a Premier League season but Lampard was unable to comment or not the north Londoners were in a relegation battle. He said: I don't want to talk about what their game is, they're just a good team with a good manager, they've had some tough results recently, said Lampard. That's not my concern where they're at, my concern is the team at face value and they're a high quality team. When playing a derby form goes out the window, we have to expect the best Arsenal, well coached and plenty of rotation. I'm very hard to talk about other leaders' situations. I don't know about the thousands of things he has to do on a day-to-day, like he doesn't know mine. LIGHTS ON WERNER 'MATCHES' Frank Lampard has responded to Timo Werner's comments earlier this week in which he said he was struggling with the demands of the Premier League. Lampard said he praises his honesty and the lack of goals is not an issue - as he is creating chances. Lampard said: Honesty is a good thing. Whether it's being taken in the right context or not, I'm not sure. We crave honesty and then sometimes hang on to every word. I don't want to speak for him, but I don't think saying Timo underestimated the league is just the right way to translate what he actually feels. I know he wanted to come here and be successful and he understood the rigours of the Premier League. It's just the fact that when you come here, it's different challenges. I don't think you can talk too much until you're here and he talked about his experiences. He's going to get a lot of chances and he's going to score a lot of goals for us. I talk to him all the time. I don't sense frustration. As a striker you will score regularly because that is how you are judged, but at the same time every striker has moments and spots where the ball does not fall for you for whatever reason. The positive is that he gets chances in games. The goals will come. What a drill We have all done this in our past. Never got paid for it, suppose to have a hold of... LAMPARD SPEAKER Frank Lampard speaks to the press ahead of the Boxing Day derby against Arsenal. We will bring you the best bits here! From 1.30pm (UK), Frank Lampard will be looking forward to #ARSCHE in his pre-match press conference! ¶ See it live on the 5th Stand app and our Facebook page or follow updates here on Twitter! pic.twitter.com/QVKfN09i- Chelsea FC (@ChelseaFC) December 23, 2020 AU REVOIR. ANT Antonio Rudiger seems to be a man in demand this window. His comments the other day about 'not being satisfied' with his situation at Chelsea appear to have attracted interest across Europe. The clubs in Milan, Barcelona, Roma and the Premier League have been linked with the German in recent days. Now La Parisien claims PSG boss Thomas Tuchel is mulling over a move for Rudiger. They claim Tuchel is an admirer of Rudiger and the player's name was mentioned to Leonardo (PSG sporting director) following Thiago Silva's departure in the summer. HIGH JUMP Abraham wins air GAB FIT Gabriel Martinelli has taken to media media announce that he is fit and ready to go again. Widespread fear among Arsenal fans unravelled last night after the youngster had to be taken out injured early with a kick to the shin. Arteta had tried to calm these nerves yesterday saying it was just a bit of swelling. But Martinelli has confirmed on Twitter that he is fit and now looks set to be included against Chelsea on Boxing Day. He posted: Feeling fine and ready to go again. LUNCHTIME RECAP A round-up of what has been said today First team stars 'hugely impressed' by young Chilwell injury 'not serious' But left-back out of Xmas and New Year games Inter Miami and West Ham join race for Giroud Rudiger 'a goal for Barcelona' BEN OUT Ben Chilwell's injury is not as bad as first feared - but he will miss out on the festive fixtures, reports say. There were concerns that the ankle injury against West Ham could rule out Chilwell in the long term. Although no comments have been made from the club, The Telegraph reports the injury prognosis is not that bad and he will only be sidelined for Christmas and New Year. Years.
